

PREPARING YOUR CHILD FOR SATS - USEFUL WEBSITES FOR REVISION

There are loads of great websites to help your child - and, when using the computer, children feel that they are not really doing any work! Here are just a few examples:

Sundog

School has paid a subscription and the children should be choosing their own skills (although they might tell you that they can't!) as well as just 'playing' the maths games. Questions are multiple choice - so open to children 'guessing' but covers some areas of maths (including shape) that other sites don't.

Mathletics

School has paid a subscription (for Years 3, 4 and 6) and again, children can choose their own skills. They have to input their own answer.

Spellodrome

Paid for by school (only Y6 has it at a cost of £8 per child - so please use it!). Children are familiar with website. Also revise old spelling lists - especially Y3/4 and Y5/6 ones. As well as spellings, I can set grammar and punctuation work on Spellodrome. www.spag.com is another site where I can set similar work. Spellings - children can choose activity. Grammar and punctuation - I have to set for them.

BBC Bitesize KS2

Free website - you can google most skills in Maths and English (or click on the links on the KS2 Bitesize page) and you will find lots of information and activities. Especially good for revision and reminders of different concepts - ideal for parents too! I recommended carrying out activities in this order and not just jumping to the games:

- Read
- Quiz
- Play (need Flash)

Who wants to be a mathionaire

Games which can be found by googling above phrase then use the search result below:

<http://www.morethanmaths.com/fun/games/mathionaire/> Can choose one of 9 games based on different maths skills. Children are always very motivated by this one ☺

Times Tables

www.multiplication.com A game where you race against the computer and other contestants. Times tables practice in a fun way.

Other sites

<http://www.primaryhomeworkhelp.co.uk/maths/>

Interactive maths games and activities. Lots of maths skills covered and children can choose the area in which they feel they need the most. Also, useful links to other maths sites, including www.nrich.maths.org (high level thinking games and problem solving/reasoning in maths). Be aware - some of the links on this website do not work and a small number of things are no longer on the new KS2 curriculum (ie median and mode).

PREPARING YOUR CHILD FOR SATS - USEFUL BOOKS

CGP revision books

School purchased 10-Minute Test books for Y6 which we regularly use for homework. CGP also make a Book 2 version of these books should anyone want to purchase these. CGP are also great for KS3 and GCSE for the future! Check out their website - www.cgpbooks.com They can be ordered directly from CGP (watch out for postage costs) or ordered from Amazon (possibly free postage if you have Amazon Prime?). They can also be ordered from Smiths using ISBN numbers. I really recommend the '10 Minute Tests' books but they have loads of other great books too.
